

EDITORIAL DESK

Welcome Readers

On behalf of the editorial board of the International Journal of Community Health and Medical Research and my co-editors I am delighted to announce the publication of the inaugural issue of this journal. It will publish case reports, original full length research articles, short communications, review papers covering empirical and theoretical contributions covering advances in medical and allied fields research. Journal will be quarterly published.

IJCMR is multidimensional, peer reviewed, Open Access gateway for the exploration of scientific discoveries and new research in the medical, dental and other sciences and is the periodical publication intended to communicate with the scientific community to further the progress of mankind. It represents the collaborative efforts of many scientists and scholars from various disciplines. Most medical and dental journals are highly specialized and they publish articles related to specific scientific fields. In an attempt to maintain quality and ensure validity of the research being published, IJCHMR subject the articles through a rigorous peer-review process, honoring copyrights.

The idea of this journal was borne through intense discussion with my teachers, colleagues and friends so that research can be published in a short span of time for the betterment of mankind and this journal is dedicated to teachers, colleagues and friends who helped me during my Professional life.

For researchers in the developing world, there is a strong pull toward publishing their research in well-established journals of developed countries due to not much availability of high standard journals in the developing world. But the result is that this research becomes inaccessible to researchers, clinicians, and health policy makers in developing countries, given their limited access to the internet and more over the high cost of online or other subscriptions to the established journals. To meet the global requirement and to set international standards our dynamic and young editorial members, constantly strive to achieve the success and progress of this journal. I have firm belief that IJCHMR will prove to be the most favored platform for scientific publications, and will be set as an ideal model in the new era of scientific journalism.

I hope you will find the first issue of this journal very informative, knowledgeable with practical applications. We hope that you will support this journal by submitting your valuable work.
